ORGANIZE TO PROMOTE LEVY

Probate Judge Hammond
Heads County Group
Backing 2-Mill Drive

LISBON, Dec. 27.—County officials and employees organized to promote plans for the two-mill levy campaign by electing Probate Judge H. W. Hammond chairman at a meeting here yesterday.

The levy, which will be voted upon Jan. 6, asks two mills for a two-year period to finance the increasing demands of the various welfare agencies of the county which are cared for through appropriations from the county general fund.

The welfare program, including the county home, children's home, aid for dependent children, soldier's and sailors relief, tuberculosis treatment, and aid for the blind, suffered this year due to a depleted general fund and will be curtailed further next year unless the levy is approved.

Judge Hammond, in addition to being general chairman, will be in charge of the campaign in Columbiana and Leetonia, and will be assisted in promotion work in various cities by Treasurer Olen H. Dawson in East Liverpool, Deputy Recorder Frances Morton at Wells-ville, Prosecutor Frank Springer in East Palestine, Judge Joel H. Sharp in Salem, Sheriff George Hayes in Lisbon, and Margaret Skinner, Salineville.

Judge Hammond announced today that a county-wide mass meeting in the interest of the levy would be held Sunday afternoon in the Potters hall at East Liverpool. The meeting was called by East Liverpool labor leaders interested in the levy's passage, he said.

Selection of Judge Hammond as the levy campaign leader followed a meeting in Lisbon Friday, attended by representatives of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, the East Liverpool Chamber of Commerce, labor council, the county commissioners and other county officials.

County leaders reiterated their statement that proceeds of the levy would be used only for relief purposes as previously explained and that all county elective officials had agreed to a three-point program for 1942 which features:

First, to strive for efficiency and where possible, reduce the personnel of their office.

Second, to agree to a 12-month program, and third, to go along with the existing salary schedule.

SALEM WOMAN
FATALLY HURT

Mrs. Rita Ciotti, Struck By Car Last Tuesday, Dies
Of Injuries

Mrs. Rita Ciotti, 45, of 388 Columbia st., who was struck Tuesday night by an automobile on the Westville-North Georgetown road, six miles south of Westville, died at 2:45 a. m. today in Salem City hospital.

She had suffered a head injury, fractured right arm and lacerations.

Her death raised the Columbiana county traffic toll for the waning year to 29.

Mrs. Ciotti, according to reports of Salem state highway patrolmen, was standing on the highway, together with her sister, Mrs. Mary Miglarini, 52, of 252 W. Pershing st., as efforts were made to get the car, in which they had been riding, out of a ditch. It was in charge of John C. Juliana, 19, of 410 Columbia st. The rear wheels of the car became mired when the driver attempted to back from a driveway, it was said.

The women were struck by an automobile driven by Earl Johnson, 9, of Sebring, who told the patrolmen that he failed to see them due to the lights of approaching machines.

Mrs. Miglarini suffered a fractured left leg and pelvis. Her condition at City hospital is described as fair.

Meanwhile, City hospital reported as critical the condition of John Howard Pitts, 33, of Racoon rd., Canfield, an attorney for the Mullins Mig. Corp., who suffered a fractured skull when his automobile struck a pole and tree on Route 2.

U. S., BRITAIN
IN AGREEMENT ON WAR PLANS

Next Step Is to Work Out
Details For Execution
Of Strategy

JOINT CONFERENCE OF ALLIES CALLED

Churchill Still Sees Nazi Invasion Effort, But Is Not Afraid

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—The United States and Great Britain were believed to have reached a preliminary agreement on the broad strategy for land, air and sea campaigns calculated to put the Allies on the high road to victory in 1943.

The next step is to work out the details and responsibility for the strategy's execution, and the expectation was that this would get under way almost immediately—perhaps even today—in a joint conference attended by the representatives of the major allied powers.

Nations Kept Informed
The nations participating will be the United States, Great Britain, Soviet Russia, China, the Netherlands, the Dominion of Canada, Australia and New Zealand. The latter six have been kept fully informed on the progress off the conversations between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill, and representatives of the Pan-American nations were invited to the White House today for a similar review.

One indication that the joint conference was about to start was the arrival here yesterday of Canada's prime minister, W. L. Mackenzie King, and it was reported that General Sir John Dill, the retiring chief of staff of the British army, would remain in Washington indefinitely to help assist in coordinating the military efforts of the two nations. Sir John came here on Churchill's party.

Expectations Invasion Attempt
In working out the broad Allied strategy, Prime Minister Churchill is understood to have proceeded on the probability that Germany would continue to threaten an invasion of Britain in order to keep the island from dispatching men or material to other theatres of operations.

Members of congress who lunched with the British prime minister after his historic address on Capitol Hill yesterday reported, however, that Churchill was confident that Britain could repel any invasion attempt.

In his address the prime minister saw reason to hope that "the end of 1942 will see us quite definitely in a better position than we are now," and that "the year 1943 will enable us to assume the initiative upon an ample scale."

Former Mayor Dies
CLEVELAND, Dec. 27.—Joel L. Foote, Sr., 85, former mayor of suburban Brooklyne Heights and one of the village's oldest residents, died last night. He was born in the village and was one of the first truck farmers in the area.

Japs Recognize No Ethics, Bomb Manila, Open City

Top—Excellent view of the Manila waterfront, capital of the Philippines, bombed by Japs despite Gen. Douglas MacArthur's declaration that it was an open city and devoid of military objectives. At top, left is Fort Santiago, insular military headquarters.

Below—View of Baguio, summer capital, 140 miles south of Manila. City officials also were empowered to designate Baguio as an open city when they deem it necessary. The Japs were reported driving against Baguio from two directions.

WAR ON JAP SHIPS

BATAVIA, Netherlands East Indies, Dec. 27.—The largest ship in a Japanese concentration was sunk by direct hits from Dutch army bombers off Kuching, capital of Sarawak on the island of Borneo, and a lighter also was sunk, a Dutch communique announced today.

Six or seven bombs burst on the ship, the communique said, and it spouted a huge column of flame, smoke and steam into the sky.

The sinking kept up the Dutch pace of a ship-a-day toll on Japanese shipping.

An airdrome in Borneo was raided by enemy bombers with one civilian killed and six wounded.

The Aneta news agency said the official tally puts Japan's losses at 16 ships sunk and five damaged at Dutch hands since the war in the Pacific began.

One was a cruiser and two were destroyers, it said, and the others were four troop transports, three freighters, four supply transport ships, one lighter and another ship. Heavy damage was said to have been inflicted upon two enemy cruisers, a seaplane tender and two transports which were probably both put out of action.

Non-Workers Lose Jobs
COLUMBUS, Dec. 27.—For failure to report for work on Christmas day, about 50 employees of Curtiss-Wright's warplane factory here have been discharged, Personnel Manager William F. O'Brien reported. All employees were requested to work at double-time pay "in the interest of national defense."

(By Associated Press)
MANILA, Dec. 27.—The Japanese air force killed many persons and started fires in defenseless Manila today in a savage two and one-half hour raid during which bombs rained unrestrained from the terror-filled skies.

The raiders roared over the city without any opposition whatever only a day after Gen. Douglas MacArthur, commander of the American and Filipino forces defending the Philippines, proclaimed to the world that the commonwealth capital was an open city. Thus he had hoped to save it from the ravages of bombs.

First reports after the bombing did not estimate the number of dead.

Ships in Harbor Bombed
A communique issued from the U. S. Far Eastern command headquarters also announced that ships in the Manila harbor were bombed.

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—The German radio, in a broadcast recorded by the NBC short wave listening post, said today "the Japanese military does not recognize that Manila is to be treated as an open city."

Elaborating, the German broadcast said that "because the decision was taken by General MacArthur without consultation with the Philippine population," the Japanese cannot recognize any open city designation for the Philippine capital.

The Japanese bombed the walled city area close to old Fort Santiago, which has not been used as a fort for years.

The raiders also unleashed explosives on a section on the opposite side of the walled city during the mass attack.

Communications within the city were so badly disrupted that it was impossible to give a clear picture immediately after the raid.

Just when the attack occurred was not stated in the first dispatches from the city but the first announcement of the heavy raid was written in Manila at 2:55 p. m. (12:55 a. m. EST), indicating that the raiders possibly left just before that hour.

The furious air assault eclipsed the land fighting in progress north and south of the capital.

Situation Unchanged
The Far Eastern command merely reported that the situation on those fronts remained unchanged during the day.

The Japanese are pressing the American and Filipino defenders in the Lingayen and Atimonan sectors of Luzon island without letup.

ASK RETURN OF BUS,
TRUCK CENSUS DATA

Bus and truck owners of Columbiana county who have not returned the census cards recently mailed to them are advised to do so immediately by Albert P. Morris, manager of the Columbiana County Motor club.

This census is being carried on at the request of the War department in order to classify types of motor equipment in Ohio.

Cards were mailed Sept. 25, but information received by the local motoring body indicates that many have failed to return them.

"It is the patriotic duty of every truck and bus owner to fill out these cards and mail to Cylon W. Wallace, registrar of the Bureau of Motor Vehicles, Columbus," Morris said today. He added that anyone who has not received a card or mislaid the one mailed can obtain one by writing to the bureau, or contact the automobile club.

PLATFORM FOR A HARD CAMPAIGN

Perhaps in the mysterious manner of information that is not supposed to be passed along, every German, every Italian, every Japanese will learn that President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill stood side by side on Christmas eve to address the world. It wouldn't mean much to the Japanese, but Germans and Italians know what Christmas symbolizes. They know, too, how far from the ideas of Christianity their gangster governments have taken them.

Cynics have sneered with bitter amusement over the way wars and religions get mixed up, and this war is not without its typical absurdities. Nevertheless, in any attempt to measure the terms of the conflict by ethical standards only one conclusion is possible. Adolf Hitler, as leader of the Axis bloc, has declared war on Christianity. He is contemptuous of Christian ethics, both in name and in fact.

It is unfortunate that the issue cannot be joined more clearly, but that always has been the case in war. Certainly no one will be foolish enough to ignore the official anti-Christian policy of Red Russia or the paganism of many of the Chinese in trying to comprehend the terms of battle. But neither will any but the most foolish ignore the plain fact that a victory for the Axis would be a loss for Christianity, whereas defeat for the Axis would open new opportunities for Christianity.

In the months and years to come, millions of plain citizens enduring the sacrifices and misgivings of war will remember a Christmas eve broadcast from the White House, and it will be enough to sustain them through a hard campaign. This is not the first time there has been a combination of systematic force to overthrow the precepts of Christianity.

NO ISOLATION IN THE PACIFIC

Perhaps it is beginning to be naive to remember how many things that are plain now weren't plain at all only a few days ago. The Philippines, for instance, which the Roosevelt administration wanted to let loose and which the military experts said couldn't be defended anyway. The Philippines then were islands picked up in the war with Spain and meant nothing to the United States but a military liability and a doubtful economic asset. But now the Philippines are plainly the means of blocking the conquest of the Netherlands East Indies by an unfriendly power—and the Netherlands East Indies, instead of being an amorphous cluster of islands lying north of Australia, can be identified by any school child as the source of rubber, tin and other vital essentials which the United States must have in order to survive.

Likewise, Singapore, formerly a romantic spot on the other side of the world where the British operated a kind of naval garrison to keep watch over shipping passing into the Indian ocean from the South China seas, lately has become one of the key points in resistance to the Axis. If Japan were to control Singapore, the Philippines, or both, the prospect of Axis victory would be commensurately brighter than it has been at any previous time.

It is no accident that the isolationists never applied their doctrine to the Pacific, where Americans have died on Guam and Wake islands, in Hawaii and in the Philippines to hold danger at arm's length. The absurdity of isolation in the Pacific has been too plain; it required only an outbreak of war to reveal the whole truth.

WASHINGTON FALLS IN LINE

What could have been the three-day wonder of Washington's decentralization becomes nothing but another item of government news in an emergency. But the same conclusion may be drawn: Washington is falling in line.

All over the United States the trend is away from centralization. Engineers are discovering what planners missed, that past a certain point centralization, itself, becomes inefficient. Housing can't meet the demand. Transportation breaks down. The flight to the suburbs gives temporary relief, but is not a solution.

Washington's case never was typical, of course. The city's population was drawn by no natural advantages. It owed its existence and its livelihood to nothing but the activities of government. For a long time the possibility of breaking up the ever-widening circle of federal organization into a number of smaller circles situated throughout the country has been under consideration. Under the pressure of recent necessity, some 40,000 federal employees will move out of Washington—not to make a net decrease of 40,000 in the city's population, be it noted, but to make room for 40,000 new workers who are needed in Washington to handle war work.

THE STARS SAY:

For Sunday, December 28.

SUNDAY'S horoscope shows a most gratifying combination of planetary forces assisting toward attainment of highest ideals and ambitions. Elders, employers, superiors and the public will be found willing and happy to give recognition and solid support toward these ends. Prompt grasp of such opportunity should bring rich rewards. Keep poised and calm in all matters.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a most promising year for rich fulfillment of the highest aims and ambitions, with the public and those in high places ready to give generous and solid support to all meritorious proposals and objectives. Grasp opportunity eagerly but not tumultuously or aggressively. Maintain poise.

A child born on this day will have many qualifications for justifying its advanced ambitions.

For Monday, December 29

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for many difficult and trying experiences in many relations of life. It will take much wisdom, sagacity and self-control to navigate these shoals successfully and keep clear of danger zones. With this accomplished there's surprising opportunity for a sudden coup of enduring profit.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves in a critical year in which their own keen and clever grasp of opportunity may lift them to good fortune and unexpected progress, far-reaching and enduring. But it will take wisdom, acumen and sound judgment to make the best of any opportunity having peculiar aspects.

A child born on this day may have conflicting traits, temperamental, peculiar and erratic, but sound after all, with fine creative ideas and ability to launch them to success and security.

TREATMENT OF PRISONERS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—The United States has informed the Japanese government that all Japanese prisoners captured by American armed forces will be treated in accordance with provisions of the prisoner-of-war convention adopted by 47 nations at Geneva in 1929.

While Japan signed but never formally ratified the pact, it was expected here that the Japanese government would grant all American prisoners of war reciprocal fair and humane treatment.

Germany and Italy, Japan's Axis partners, signed and ratified the pact and, on the basis of reports from the international Red Cross, are observing its terms in the treatment of British, French and other European prisoners of war.

To carry out the convention's terms the United States government will set up an organization to handle war-prisoner questions in cooperation with Marc Peter, former Swiss minister to Washington, who will represent the international Red Cross here.

The Japanese already hold a number of Americans as prisoners of war, including marines who were stationed at Peiping and Tientsin; the crew of an American gunboat captured at Shanghai; the small but valiant marine garrison on Wake island; a small naval and marine force taken on Guam; the undisclosed number of contract workers employed on these two captured bases; and presumably some American and Filipino troops taken in the Philippines.

Only a few Japanese prisoners of war have been taken thus far by American forces. These include several airmen shot down in Hawaii, and the two-man crew of at least one Japanese pigmy submarine which attacked Pearl harbor.

In expectation that large numbers of Japanese soldiers and sailors will ultimately be captured, however, the War department already is planning internment camps where Japanese prisoners of war—as distinct from interned Japanese nationals—will be held until exchanged or for the duration of the war.

"ON TO WATERLOO!"

"DON'T WORRY SO MUCH!" — CLENDENING

Encourage People, Don't Scare Them, Is Advice

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

I am in receipt of a little book called "Don't Be Afraid—How to Get Rid of Fear and Fatigue," by Dr. Cowles of the Park Avenue hospital, New York. I certainly feel strongly that the idea contained in the title has a message for Americans today which I would like to bring to the attention of the nation in Washington, D. C.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Apparently the first thing anybody who is appointed to any kind of a position in Washington says to himself is:

"Now the American people are doing things all wrong. What can I say to scare them, so they will do things my way?"

It never seems to occur to one of these mighty intellects to say:

"Things look to be getting along pretty well considering everything. I'm going out and buck up the American people and give them some encouragement."

They have scared us about the Japanese in the Pacific. They have scared us about the Germans in South America. They have scared us about the collapse of Great Britain. They have scared us because we do not have enough manganese or tungsten.

Nutritional Scare

The eminent Dr. McNutt decided in his capacity as director of public hygiene and national nutrition to scare the pants off everybody by telling them that 95 million Americans don't know how to eat.

I have a letter from a lady who has just been made United States assistant director of civilian defense in charge of national physical training for women. She wrote me for advice and her only idea was that she wouldn't have been appointed to that position if things were all right, so what can she scare up to scare the women about on the subject of health?

Well, I am getting a little tired of all this. I do not know much about the Germans and the Japanese, but I do know about national nutrition and I know most of the scares thrown into us on the basis of undernutrition are without scientific foundation. The vast majority of Americans are eating very well, getting enough to eat, and they don't need to take a post-graduate course in nutritional science to remain that way.

Healthful Good Eating

People see me in a restaurant and say, "Why, what are you eating? You don't practice what you preach." They don't know what I preach. If you eat what you can select in an American restaurant, you will be eating perfectly scientifically three times a day.

"Like mother used to make" is a very good rule of diet. Mother was a splendid nutritionist and she was plenty scientific. The boys that mother turned out from her table did pretty well in the world even though they were full of a whole alphabet of vitamins.

Long before I had ever heard of dietetics, I ate what my appetite dictated, have continued to do so and I am perfectly healthy at the age of 57. My wife has always eaten the way she wanted to and she is perfectly healthy at the age of—well, the age of maturity. My mother never heard of vitamins or the stretching exercises; she set a table we all enjoyed, and she lived to be nearly 80 years of age, and when my father was 75 he could shovel more snow off the sidewalk in an hour than most of the Vitamin Boys could in a week.

So let's quit worrying so much and have a little more courage!

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

W. D. S.: "Please tell me what should be done for geographic tongue, which I have had for nine or ten months."

Answer: Geographic tongue is the name given to an eruption on the tongue which often follows a contagious disease. The irregular appearance of the eruption has been likened to the outline of a map, hence the name. The rash changes rapidly from day to day; the cause is unknown and the only treatment is to keep the tongue as clean as possible. It always disappears eventually.

Wednesday, 9:30 p. m. to midnight, special watch night program and baptismal service.

The passing of the old year is an appropriate time to think of the happy privileges of life as well as the serious and sacred responsibilities of it. Human experience has proven that dark days of peril and insecurity which expose men to grave danger may prove a source of many blessings in disguise. This has been especially true for those people who know how to draw upon the inexhaustible resources for triumph living. With these and other similar thoughts in mind Rev. Magann will preach Sunday morning on "How to Live and Like It" and Sunday evening on "You and 42". The choir will furnish special music at both services. Visitors are welcome.

New Year

The book is opened to a new page as we are about to write. The almost finished page of the old year is our record of the past. We may not be pleased about everything recorded there—but to a large measure we are responsible for our past. As authors learn to write by writing, so we ought to learn to live by living.

The new year is an opportunity to live better and more fully than we have lived in the past. Much of this depends upon how well we have learned our lesson. Have been keen enough mentally and honest enough morally and humble enough spiritually to permit our past mistakes and shortcomings to teach us wisdom? Can we view the road over which we come and by its windings, discover that there is a more direct and straighter way?

Let us set out then, determined that each day shall be better than the previous as we go on, ever led and sustained by the wisdom, guidance, and strength of our Father.

All meetings of organizations for the coming week are postponed.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES ARE LISTED

"Christian Science" is the subject of the lesson sermon which will be read at the morning worship of the Christian Science society tomorrow at 11 a. m.

The Sunday service is also broadcast over station WCLE (610 kil.) Cleveland, the first and third Sundays of each month at 11 a. m.

Sunday school for pupils up to the age of 20 years is held at 9:30 a. m. The midweek service is held the first Wednesday of each month at the church at 8 p. m.

The Golden Text is: "Heal the sick, cleanse the lepers, raise the dead, cast out devils: freely ye have received, freely give" (Matthew 10:8).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Then said Jesus to those Jews which believed on Him: If ye continue in My word, then are ye My disciples indeed; . . . And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." (John 8:31,31).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Whoever would demonstrate the healing of Christian Science must abide strictly by its rules, heed every statement, and advance from the rudiments laid down. There is nothing difficult nor toilsome in this task, when the way is pointed out; but self-denial, sincerity, Christianity, and persistence alone win the prize, as they usually do in every department of life" (p. 432).

This society maintains a reading room at 136 South Broadway where the Bible and all authorized Christian Science literature may be read or borrowed. Open from 1:30 to 4 p. m. on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday, and from 7 to 9 p. m. on Saturday. A cordial invitation is extended to all, to attend the services and visit the reading room.

Guest Evangelist To Speak To Nazarenes

Regular services will be held at the Nazarene church tomorrow. It was announced by Pastor J. Stewart Maddox.

The public is cordially invited to attend these services.

"Divine Presentation" Is Topic of Rev. Starbuck

Rev. Andrew B. Starbuck of the First Friends church will preach a New Year's sermon tomorrow at 11, entitled "Divine Preservation." The text is taken from Psalms 121 verses 7 and 8. "The Lord shall preserve thy going out and thy coming in from this time forth, and even for evermore."

At the evening service, he will give an evangelistic message from Acts 2:40, using the last statement which reads, "Save yourselves from this untoward generation."

Other Sunday services are as follows:

9:45 Sunday school, Raymond Ingram, superintendent.

6:30 Christian Endeavor.

On Wednesday evening, a New Year's prayer meeting will be held in the Sunday school room at 7:30.

As Churchill, President Held Press Conference

With more than 200 reporters packed about them in the White House, President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill held a joint press conference prior to meetings of the allied war council. Churchill, who did most of the talking as his gracious host, Mr. Roosevelt, sat smiling at his side, warned the U. S. not to expect victory by an internal German collapse. The president and Churchill are seated, right.

"LOST HEIRS", TOPIC OF REV. KEISTER

Rev. George D. Keister of the Holy Trinity English Lutheran church will speak on "Lost Heirs" at the morning worship service tomorrow at 11:00.

Other services for tomorrow and announcements for the following are listed.

The church school for religious instruction will convene at 9:45, with classes for all ages. The lesson topic is, "The Christian's Hope," based in the Bible texts, St. John 14:1-6, and Revelation 22:1-5. Further religious instruction will be provided for children from ages five to twelve at 11 a. m. in the Sunday school rooms in the organization, "Children of the Church."

The hope of existence beyond the experience death is universally to be found in minds of all people. No matter how limited one's culture or development, there cannot be any rejection of the fact that life here on this earth is faced with an end. It is therefore very natural that people think of what happens after death. The clearest and most definite philosophy of life after death has come from Jesus Christ. He Himself walked the way of death to Calvary. He returned to life through His physical resurrection. He knew of what He was speaking. The Christian's hope is no mere fancy, but has foundation and substance that gives unfailing assurance.

"Inheritances are considered often as great favors and blessings. People have struggled and fought that they may share in these residues of large estates. It would be a mistake to consider inheritances only of the physical character. There are valuable estates which are not measured in acres and bonds. Heredity can pass on to coming generations, strength which is both physical and spiritual. Godly parents can pass on their children the desire and love for moral treasures. God's Kingdom has an inheritance for every believer. The Christmas message has a treasure for every believer. People are lost heirs who are not accepting these treasures from God."

Luther League 6:30 Devotional leader—Marilyn Page.

Members of the church and Sunday school will go to the County Home, near Lisbon to bring some Christmas cheer to the residents there. Plans are made to be at the County Home at 2:30. A brief service will be held and Christmas cheer will be distributed to the people there. Those going should be at the church at 2 p. m.

The Jessie Thomas circle meeting, postponed, will be held on Jan. 6.

Tuesday

The annual meeting of the congregation will be held at the church at 7:30. Election of officers and reports of officers and organization will be part of the business.

'Jesus, the Saviour' Topic of Rev. Tabor

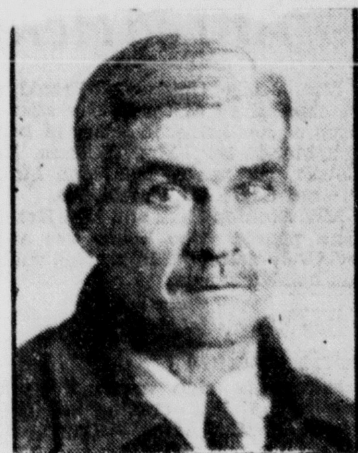

"Jesus, the Saviour" will be the topic of Rev. G. A. Tabor at the Church of God tomorrow. Morning worship services will begin at 11:00. Sunday school services will be held at the regular time.

On Sunday evening the annual Christmas program will be presented under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Buckman in the church at 8. Anyone is welcome to attend.

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—Frieda Coleman, who enlisted in the marines in 1918 and worked in the Kansas City marine recruiting office for 10 months, is ready to return to service. Miss Coleman, now a life insurance company stenographer, recalled that the other marines dubbed her a martinet and classed her as a corporal.

AFTER A MAN SUFFERS 20 YEARS HE SHOULD KNOW WHAT BRINGS RELIEF

Took Laxatives For Ten Years; Headaches, Nervousness and Excessive Gas Suffered Until TON JON Came to the Rescue.

BERT JUSTISON

"A man that has suffered for 20 years as I have should surely know when and what made him feel like living and enjoying life again, so full credit is due TON JON for the remarkable change that has come over me," says Mr. Bert Justison of Homeworth, Ohio, R. F. D., near Alliance.

"Before taking TON JON I had to take laxatives over a period of 10 years, for my bowels never acted without them. Of course, this constipated condition brought on many other ill effects. I suffered with liver and gall bladder trouble and nothing I tried, seemed to give me any relief. I had so much gas and this kept me from eating the things I wanted. Since I had to be careful not to use a harsh laxative it was very hard for me to find anything that would get results."

"I decided to give TON JON a trial and amazing things began to happen. I immediately felt wonderful relief. My bowels were regular and no cramping or griping effects. Now I sleep well, feel rested when I get up and enjoy my meals."

"TON JON has made me feel so much better that I am truly grateful for the opportunity to tell others what it has done for me. The headaches I used to have to endure, and the nervousness that was so terrible have now vanished. Now I enjoy living, thanks to TON JON."

If you have ever felt the way this man did, the TON JON health Representative at the Broadway-Lease Drug Store, Salem, Ohio will be glad to talk to you whenever you can visit him.

Today's Pattern

HOME FROCK HAS "HEART APPEAL"

Pattern 4901

Feel lazy in the morning? Here's a frock you can slip on quickly before breakfast and look perfectly dressed. Pattern 4901 by Anne Adams has a "jiffy" front buttoning and set-in tied belt. Don't you like the gay heart pocket on the bodice and the smartly scalloped collar? The heart may be applied instead—you'll find directions in the Sewing Instructor. It's a very easy pattern to make, too—the back is cut in only two main sections. Make the sleeve either short or three-quarter length for around-the-house wear, and use long sleeves for a street frock. The collar, the heart, and the belt may all be made of contrasting fabric for an unusually perfect effect as shown on the smaller figure.

Pattern 4901 is available in misses' and women's sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 takes 3½ yards 35 inch fabric.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly SIZE, NAME, ADDRESS and STYLE NUMBER.

Are you too tall? Too short? Too plump? Too slim? If you are irregularly proportioned in any way, let the ANNE ADAMS PATTERN FOUNDATION PATTERN 4745 take the guess-work out of dressmaking. Adjust this "basic figure" tissue pattern to your measurements; then cut it out in muslin and fit it exactly for a permanent record. Pin your dress pattern to it, make the necessary changes, and the finished frock will fit with perfection. Designed for sizes 12 to 20; 30 to 50 Size 16 requires 3½ yards 35 inch fabric. Price 15c.

A brand new slant just discovered is to reverse the old idea of the basic dress and accessories, and have a basic set of accessories, a good hat, pair of gloves, purse and shoes, and let them dress up that frock you've neglected wearing because it seemed not quite chic. Renee Carson, radio actress, did just this. She selected a brown beaver felt pillbox hat, brown suede gloves, a flat, square, pleated brown suede purse and brown suede step-in shoes with medium heel and scroll at the instep. At left she is shown wearing these accessories with a cocoa crepe afternoon dress. The hat is brightened with two bright green sequin butterflies clipped to cover the ears. Center she wears them with a mint green wool daytime dress with stitched details. Here an inexpensive green feather is put on the hat to give it a different appearance. In the last photograph she models a shetland suit of wool in muted gold shade with overtones of rose. It has the long jacket, patch pockets and wider skirt of the new style. The accessories are worn "as is" with this suit.

RECOGNIZES U. S. AS CLOSEST ALLY

MELBOURNE, Australia, Dec. 27.—Prime Minister John Curtin, in an article written for the Melbourne Herald, declared today that despite Australia's links with Britain her closest partner in war in the Pacific is the United States.

"The government," he said in the article, "regards the Pacific struggle as primarily one in which the United States and Australia should have the fullest say in the direction of the fighting plan."

He said his government's policy "is shaped toward obtaining Russian aid and working out with the United States a plan of Pacific struggle is a subordinate segment of the general conflict."

"I make it clear that Australia looks to America free from any pangs about our traditional links of friendship to Britain."

"We know Britain's preachers. We know her constant threat of invasion. We know the dangers of dispersing strength—but we know that Australia can go and Britain still will hold on."

"We are determined that Australia shall not go. We shall exert our energy toward shaping a plan with the United States as its keystone, giving our country independence and ability to hold out until the tide of battle swings against the enemy."

66 Emerald Embassy by FRANCIS GERARD

SYNOPSIS

Tragedy stalks into the little village of Weyland, England, when Ambrose Pennyfeather, a respected citizen, murdered. The local police cannot solve the murder, so Yves Blaydes-Steel enlists the aid of Sir John Meredith, former Scotland Yard ace, when the latter accompanies him next morning on a diplomatic mission for Yves' brother, Lord George Lanchester. For generations it has been the custom for the current Lord Lanchester to act as representative of the Crown in presenting the Dwan (Sultan) of the Island of Sulungu with a priceless emerald as a token of good will between the two sovereigns dating since 1835, when the then Lord Lanchester deposed the tyrannical Dwan of the island and seated the latter's cousin on the throne. In recent years, Bona Thalan, the present ruler, has come to England to receive the gift, which has assumed even greater international importance, for Japan is presumed to be eyeing the island, which is strategically located for a submarine base. There are now 101 jewels in the chain. Yves substitutes for his ill brother and goes to receive necklace from the Dwan to have the new emerald added.

Yves and Sir John receive a cool reception from the Sultan, who obviously distrusts them. They bring the necklace to London and are stunned to learn it is an imitation. Sir John cautions Monachet, the jeweler, and Yves to say nothing of their discovery. Then, in the presence of Monachet and two witnesses, Sir John forges the jeweler's name to a receipt for the genuine necklace. Then he and Yves and Sir John's sincerity. Bona Thalan admits he gave them the imitation necklace because he had been warned they were imposters, and turned the genuine jewels over to thieves. He suspects the Countess Anne de Vassignac, Parisian social leader and a descendant of the deposed Dwan of Sulungu, who aspires to the throne. At the time Yves and Sir John are talking with the Dwan, Philip Horton, ex-officer of His Majesty's Engineers, calls on the countess, with whom he is infatuated. He had been cashiered from the army because of his infatuation for got him into financial difficulties. He tells her he has the Sulungu necklace for her, but is shocked that a man had to be killed to secure its hiding place. Endeavoring to ascertain who, besides the family knew Yves was to substitute for his brother as the King's messenger, Sir John learns that Norma Hailey, Lord Lanchester's secretary, typed the letter of introduction for Yves. The Duchess of Stream had urged the Lanchesters to employ Norma, who was stranded in Paris after the death of her father, a friend of the duchess. Inspector Rainbird calls.

CHAPTER TWELVE
Meredith and Blaydes-Steel went down to the library to see Rainbird. Promptly, the inspector extracted a large notebook from a capacious pocket and, adjusting a pair of pince-nez on his snub nose, gave Meredith a resume of the known details in connection with the killing of Mr. Ambrose Pennyfeather.

Sir John listened in silence until the other had finished, then remarked, "I'm afraid, Inspector, I have nothing to suggest at the moment. Of course, I'll have to go and have a look at the hill by Weyland's Wood. You tell me the bullets were fired from a small automatic of French manufacture."

"Yes, sir. We've been able to check that."

"Not much help, you know, Inspector," said Meredith. "If the gun were bought before the new law over there affecting fire-arms, there'll be no record of it and thus no means of tracing its owner."

Rainbird went away looking somewhat disappointed.

When Meredith drove away from Weyland Hall late that afternoon he left behind him a very subdued household. The loss of the Sulungu necklace, coming on top of the murder of Pennyfeather, was a hammer blow on their already raw nerves. They made no connection in their own minds between the two events, other than that they were both shocks following one another closely.

As Sir John drove through the winding Suffolk lanes, his was a melancholy mood for he confessed to himself that he could see little daylight in the mystery surrounding either Ambrose Pennyfeather's death or the disappearance of the necklace. In the latter puzzle there was something to catch hold of, but not much.

Meredith was thinking of that strange interview between the Dwan and the latter's cousin which the former had described to him and Yves Blaydes-Steel the day before. . . . An interesting character the little de Vassignac. Prompted doubtless by curiosity, she had called, about a year previously, on the Dwan when he was staying at his Paris hotel. She had told him quite frankly that she had come merely to see what he looked like and she had told him, just as frankly, that she intended to sit upon the throne of Sulungu.

Bona Thalan had pointed out that, so long as he was alive, such a succession was unlikely to which la Vassignac had replied that she had no intention of allowing him to live. Such a blunt warning pointed to the girl's involvement, the more he thought about her, the more interested the noted detective became.

When he arrived at Radfield Place, Sir John asked Hobbs to fetch Sergeant Matthew Beef from his cottage which stood not a hundred yards from Meredith's home.

"Ello," said ex-Detective Sergeant Beef pushing a round, red face round the corner of the door not five minutes later and adding unnecessarily, "It's me, Sir John."

"Well, come on in, man," said Meredith. "I refuse to conduct a conversation with an apparently disembodied head. Sit down, Beef. I want to talk to you."

"Some little thing gone wrong with the British Legion or the Parish Council," suggested Beef.

"No," said Meredith. "It's merely a matter of murder and theft."

"Excuse me, Sir John, but regarding the theft, was anything valuable stolen?"

"Only a necklace," said Meredith. "It's worth something over five hundred thousand pounds."

Beef blinked. Did you say five hundred or five thousand, sir?"

"I said five hundred thousand."

"And that made Beef blink thrice."

"Well," said Meredith leaning back in his chair after describing known details surrounding, first, the death of Mr. Pennyfeather, and then the disappearance of the Sulungu necklace, "What do you think?"

The other was in no hurry to reply. He pulled at his snub nose. "Well, Sir John," he said at length, "there are two things that stick out a mile and I expect they do to you. It's like this: With regard to the Pennyfeather takin' off, there's absolutely nothing that you might describe as a lead. It leads straight up against a blank wall. Because, if your facts are correct, the only possible known motive might be attributed to this man servant chap, Ogbin but, from what you tell me, we can rule him out."

"I don't think there's any doubt of that, Beef. I've seen the man and I'm prepared to accept his innocence."

"Now, what about the necklace?"

"Ar!" growled Beef. "That's a different story altogether! I don't know much about this 'ere Countess de Vassignac-somebody, but I'd like to know something more about this Miss Norma 'Alley as is secretary to His Lordship. A'course, I may be wrongin' the girl! . . . Meredith did not smile. . . . "but what do they really know about her? Just check over what they told you."

Meredith nodded. "I think I'll do just that. Anyway, I'm going to work on Miss Norma Hailey. The question is, how to keep tabs on her without letting the family up at Weyland Hall know. I'm doing so."

Beef said slowly, "Didn't you say as 'ow she'd been recommended by the Duchess of Stream? Well, sir, what about Lady McAllister?"

"Beef," said Meredith, "you're an inspiration!"

guess. But what's it all about, John?"

"I don't want to tell you," said Meredith frankly.

"Oh, well," said Lady McAllister, "I haven't been married to an intelligence man for as long as I have without learning to control my curiosity. You shall have a report from me as soon as possible."

It was the following afternoon that Katherine McAllister called on the Duchess of Stream. Stream House was an absolute mausoleum in more ways than one. Most of the great reception rooms were closed now and unused. Their furniture, priceless in its day, had been sold. The duke had been dead for some years; his only son and heir had died in Flanders. Death duties and increasing taxation had reduced Veronica Stream to sad straits, yet, though she was comparatively poor, she was still a power in society.

The Duchess sat awaiting her visitor in the room which she called "my cubby-hole." Thank goodness it was only Katherine and she would not have to sit in that chilly drawing-room which Bates seemed never to be able to keep warm, now that they had decided to do without the central heating. The "cubby-hole" was on the first floor and it was a room typical of Veronica Stream, with books, knitting and news papers strewn about the place. There was a comfortable, if battered, sofa and three exquisite Louis Quinze chairs. She, herself, sat in one of these, since they were occupied by a supine collection of dogs, six in all.

The Duchess did occupy a small, round stool with her back to the fire. She was a little woman with fluffy, white hair and a pair of horn-rimmed spectacles balanced on the extreme tip of her nose. She was concentrating alternately upon a complicated piece of knitting and a detective novel which was balanced against a Great Dane's right ear. She wore a shapeless jersey (knitted by herself) and a skirt which she had put on back to front.

The door opened to admit Bates the butler and instantly the furniture erupted dogs, all baying, barking and yapping. "Did you want to see me, Bates?" the Duchess asked. "In any case I wanted to see you. Now what was it I wanted to speak to you about?"

"I really couldn't say, Your Grace."

"No, I suppose you couldn't. Oh, yes, I know. Have you had any wages lately?"

"Not very recently, Your Grace."

"Now that's very silly of you. You shouldn't allow things like that to stand over. I'm constantly worrying about things like this. You know, Bates, it's very reprehensible of you."

"Yes, Your Grace," said the butler humbly.

"Most reprehensible! You have no business to go on working for me unless you're properly paid. I'm very displeased. Can't have these sort of things, you know. You must take it out of the housekeeping money. Remind me to speak to Miss Bream about it."

The Duchess paused a moment, closed her eyes tight and pressed her thumb and first finger into the corners. She was concentrating. "Which reminds me, Bates, has Miss Bream received her salary, d'you know?"

"The housekeeper doesn't discuss such matters with me, Your Grace."

"Doesn't she? That's very foolish of her. Remind me to ask her. Oh, dear me, all you people are most difficult. Ring up that nice young man at Christie's and ask him to come and see me."

"If Your Grace is contemplating making a further sacrifice, may I take it upon myself to speak for the others and to assure Your Grace that it is not necessary? I am sure we are very happy to remain in your service."

"You must be very silly people," said Veronica Stream, but her smile was very sweet and her eyes a shade misty.

"Shall I use the Sevres set for tea this afternoon?" asked Bates.

"Yes, I think so," replied his mistress. "Lady McAllister is appreciative."

Sir John had a lengthy telephone conversation that evening with Sir Hector McAllister's wife in London.

"Yes, John," said her voice towards the close of their talk, "I quite understand. You can count on me not to appear too inquisitive. Veronica Stream won't even

Men are plungers, gamblers, chance-takers. Women prefer to know, rather than to guess.

That's why so many women seek knowledge about funeral services, and funeral prices, in advance of necessity. They realize that if they wait until the very instant of need, they will not have the time to make a sound decision, and will have to take a chance on snap judgment.

Modern funeral firms like the Stark Memorial realize that this procedure is both logical and becoming more and more commonplace. Accordingly, they invite anyone desiring to do so to call at any time to discuss whatever problems may be confronting them. Honest, friendly counsel is assured.

Free French Forces Seize Islands Off Newfoundland

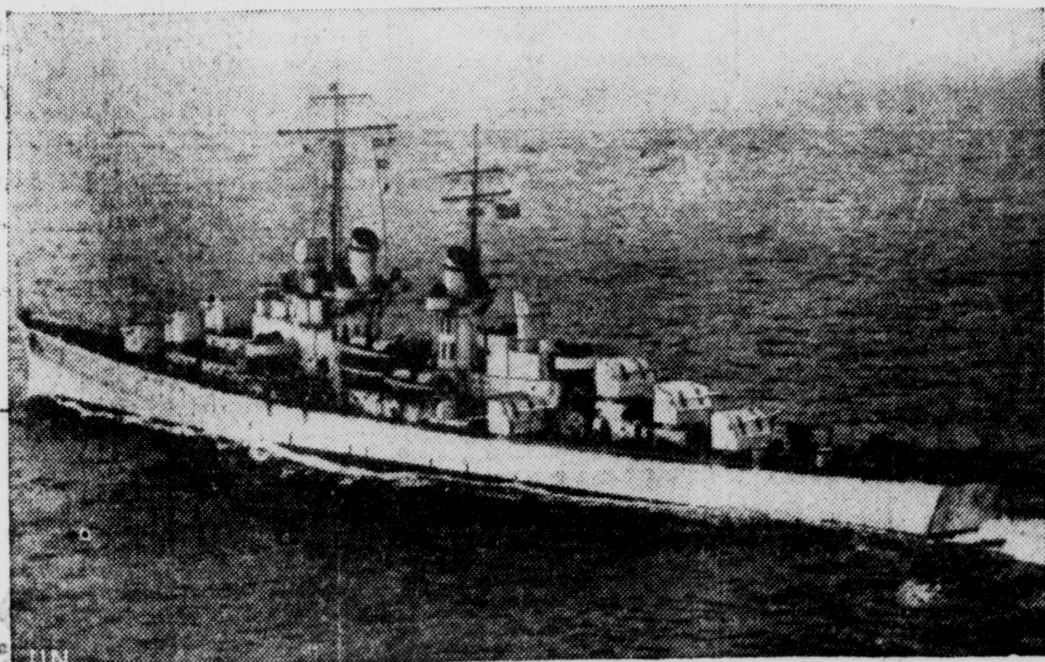

Under the direction of General Charles de Gaulle, free French forces, including sailors such as these shown aboard a free French destroyer, have occupied the strategic, Vichy-controlled islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon, off the Newfoundland coast. Under command of Vice Admiral Emile Muselier, also pictured, the free French, arriving aboard three warships, took possession of all key offices and then arranged for a plebiscite in which the 5,000 residents voted. The U. S. condemned the action as "arbitrary" and formally asked Canada to take steps to restore the "status quo". It was said that American officials were perturbed over the action which they felt could only endanger relations between Washington and Vichy.

Franz Halder, chief of the German general staff, and also credited with master-minding many of the major Nazi campaigns.

"Smokeout" Tried to Test Daylight Camouflage of Huge Steel Mill

Gary steel works during "smokeout"

Testing methods of camouflaging industrial plants in the U. S. during daylight hours, officials of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation at Gary, Ind., the largest steel mill in the world, tried a "smokeout" and later announced another test will be held. Army officials looked on with interest. Dense, black smoke belched from tall stacks of every plant unit and workers built big smudge fires throughout the plants. The "smokeout" was said to have been only about 25 per cent effective since a strong wind was blowing. Blanket of soot played havoc with housekeepers in the surrounding area.

Bucks Meet Stanford On West Coast; Depend On Fisher

(By United Press)

Toledo university's red hot Rockets tangle tonight with Cornell's basketballers, favored to make it three in a row over the invaders from Ithaca, N. Y., while Ohio State's Big Ten cagers take on Stanford at Berkeley, Calif., during a holiday season barnstorming tour.

Toledo, winner of six straight games this season, defeated Cornell 45-29 in their 1939 encounter and won a 34-33 thriller last year. The Ithacans have won two of their three starts this season.

The Buckeyes' hopes bounced with Stanford's defeat the last time out by Santa Clara, 31-21. The Ohioans are counting heavily on the scoring prowess of Dick Fisher, the fleet footballer, to get them back on the victory trail after their 60-34 loss to Creighton.

The Ohio State game is the first event of a double bill, the second pitting Georgia Tech against University of California. Monday night Ohio State and Georgia Tech will switch opponents.

One week from tonight the teams of the Big Ten will tussle in another Western conference basketball season, and among those rated a good chance of pushing off Wisconsin, defending title-holder, is Indiana, 1940-41 runnerup.

The Hoosiers have piled up victories over Wabash, Nebraska, U. C. L. A. and Pittsburgh in non-conference activity. Indiana added the Pitt Panthers to its list of victims last night by scoring a 50-41 victory.

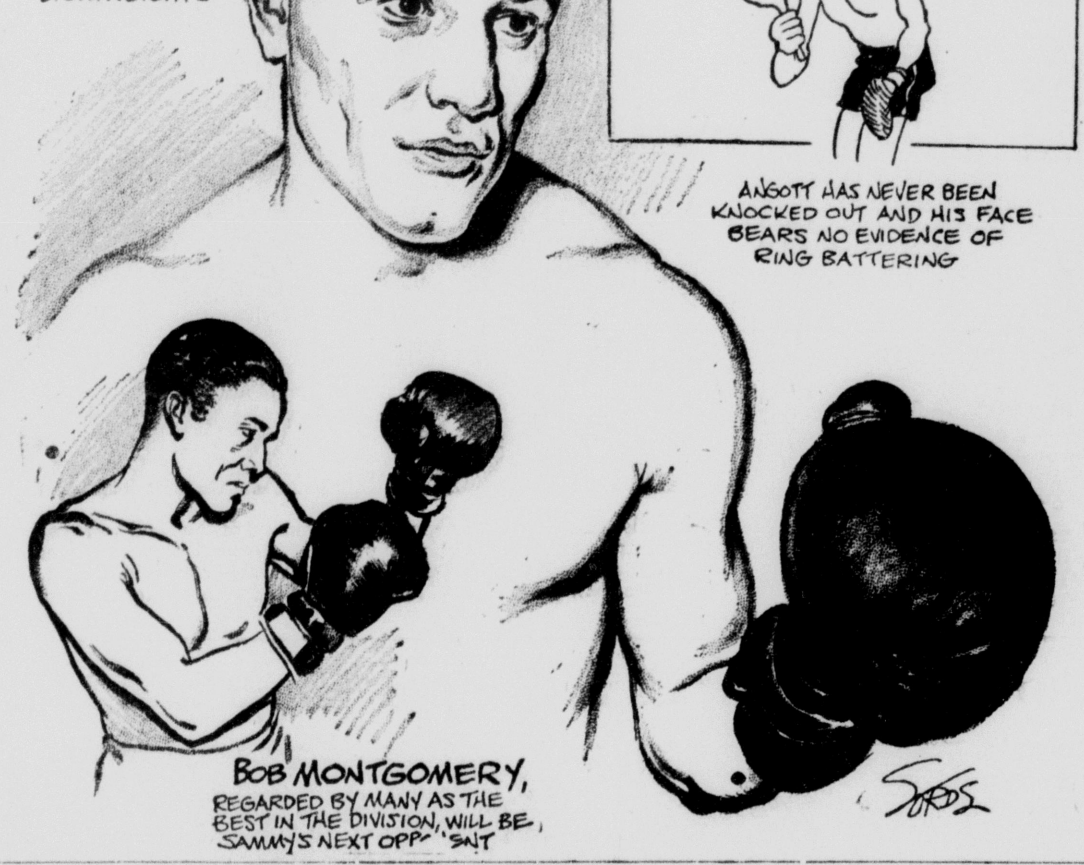

Purdue, winner in three out of four games, will meet Butler's rugged quintet, and Minnesota, victor in four straight, will be host to Nebraska, in other games tonight.

BOWLING RESULTS

The Colonial Finance keglers in the Grate Ladies League blasted out another shutout win at the Grate alleys last night, defeating Eagles No. 2. Aside from that they managed to set two new records for women bowlers in this city. In their first game of the evening the Finances rolled a 951 total with Frieda Orr hitting a 202. In the second they dropped down to 844 pins but in the final game they again began to blast the pins. Paced by Helen Caldwell, who rolled a 200 even, the Colonial Finances topped 917 pins to give them a three-game total of 2712 setting a new record.

Coy's lost their second place perch as they took two from Hi-Ho while the third place Haldi's copped three from the A. A. to throw the two teams into a deadlock for second place.

In other matches, Kaufman's topped Endres-Gross twice and the Trades Class took the same number from Schwartz's.

A match between Salem China and Eagles No. 1 was postponed.

The Salem Eagles' road team will bowl the Mueller Egg Noodles of Akron on the Masonic temple alleys at 8 p. m. Saturday. The opposition for the home rollers is commonly known as the heavyweight team of Ohio. Their six man squad totals 1450 pounds.

RISE IN OFFENSE IS OUTSTANDING TREND OF SEASON

Scribes Consider Swing To "T" Formation of Importance Also

BY ORLO ROBERTSON

NEW YORK — A year ago the football fathers wrote into the code book two new rules, both designed to step up scoring and answer the offense's call for help.

The two rules, one calling for unlimited substitutions and the other permitting fourth down passes inside the 20-yard line without danger of the ball going back to 20 if the aerial was incomplete, served their purpose well. In fact they did it so well that the increase in scoring in college football was considered the outstanding trend of the year by sports writers participating in the Associated press poll.

10 Name Swing to "T"

No fewer than 15 writers considered the rise of the offense over the defense as the most important development of 1941 while other phases of the gridiron sport also came in for strong consideration to give football dominance over all other sports. Ten writers considered the swing to the T-formation, brought to the front in 1940 by Stanford, Chicago Bears and Boston College, as the most important trend.

Six pointed out the greater interest in professional football, especially in the mid-west, and four the leveling off of college football power as shown by the few unbeaten major schools. Also mentioned were such football trends as, general increase in attendance; the Syracuse Y-Formation with its reverse center, quieting of demands for reforms in conduct of the sport; accuracy of passing and more aerials in college competition; fast game as the result of the new rules; more good backs; increased interest in night games; coaches master minding from the bench via the new substitution rule; steady decline of field goals, especially drop kicking; use of more power plays to score; development of defensive and offensive specialists; the decline of Pacific Coast football and increased interest despite it; rise of Southern teams and good showings of Big Nine and southwest eleven.

Others Get Consideration

The only other developments that received the consideration of more than one writer were, the increased interest in bowling, especially among women and children; the number of athletes joining up with Uncle Sam with the resultant talk of permitting freshmen to participate in varsity sports; the growth of winter sports, particularly skiing; continued interest in night softball and the increased interest in participant sports such as golf and bowling.

Jap Bomber That Didn't Get Away in Honolulu

This official Navy photo shows the wing of a huge Japanese bombing plane which was shot down on the grounds of the Naval Hospital in Honolulu. American airmen are adding to the glory of the services in their action against the Japs.

One writer thought the No. 1 trend was the return of player managers in baseball, another the lack of class in all boxing divisions while another saw a trend toward open tennis competition with falling off of interest in amateur play.

For putting three teams in the semi-finals of the A. A. U. basketball tournament, the improvement of the cage sport in California was rated No. 1 by a west coast writer. A metropolitan writer named as his choice the increased interest in harness racing in New York. Others saw decided trends toward more youngsters appearing in competition, the gain of pro sports over amateur competitions, greater attendance in all sports despite the war, return of interest in amateur and semi-pro baseball and the increase of attendance at horse race meetings.

Geographical concentration of industry in the United States is decreasing under pressure of defense production.

safety and industrial and commercial operations of a limited nature. These are:

1—Physicians, surgeons, visiting nurses, veterinarians.

2—Ambulances.

3—Fire fighting equipment, police vehicles, garbage removal trucks and mail delivery cars.

4—Public service vehicles with a capacity of 10 or more passengers on regular transportation routes, school buses or cars to carry workers to and from industrial plants.

5—Trucks for ice and fuel delivery, road maintenance, public utilities facilities, essential repair services, waste and scrap dealers, common carriers and transportation for raw materials, semi-finished or finished goods which are not moving directly to the household for ultimate consumers' use.

6—Farm tractors or other implements, except trucks or pleasure cars.

7—Industrial, mining and construction equipment, except trucks or other automobiles.

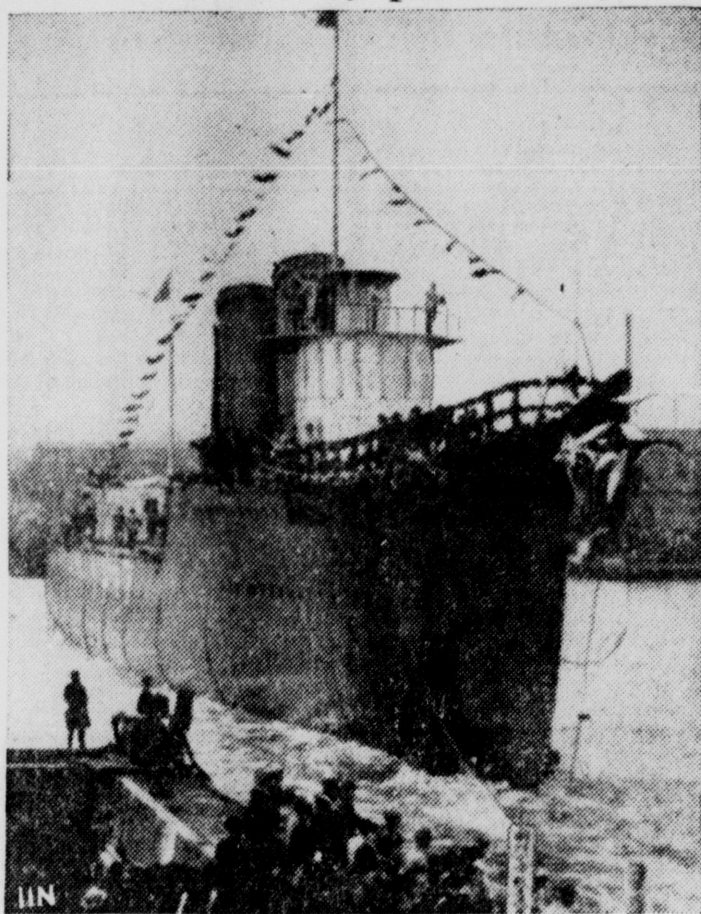

As to the prohibition against sale for use on cars delivering to consumers, it was explained that there were factors to relieve any situation involving delivery of milk, bakery products and department store goods.

The pooling of delivery facilities was one suggested solution, especially where there is duplication of routes such as in milk and laundry services. Some of the bigger firms were said to have large stocks of tires on hand to carry them along for some time.

MULLINS STARTS 2ND SHELL SHIFT

Salem Plant Continues Efforts for Additional Government Work

Big Machinery Investment
Close to a half-million dollars is invested in new machinery for the Mullins shell order alone.

As an instance of the variance in machinery, Mullins could use only one piece of equipment which it already had, a large press, on the shell order. This press is used to shape the shell noses.

At the present time they are being shaped cold. But the government has been taking manganese out of metal for other purposes, and when forgings without the manganese start through, it will be impossible to shape them cold. They'll have to be heat-treated in a huge specially designed heat treating unit.

It's frequently the case that the size of an order does not necessarily mean that the employment factor will be large. Often most of the value of the order is tied up in materials.

The Salem plant is working on sub-contracts for two other defense items.

One of them is a medium tank turret. By way of showing how much can be tied up in a comparatively small item, plant officials point out that each turret has several hundred dollars worth of machining alone on it.

Another job is the machining of cartridge presses. These are huge frames, involving again a large amount of material and machine work.

Seek Government Work

Mullins officials are doing everything possible to bring more government work into the plant. Bids are constantly being submitted to the government on all types of work. The development laboratory and engineers are cooperating in the redesigning of products, the redesigning of facilities for war, the development of materials that can be used in the place of critical materials.

They may design a totally new product that may be used by the government. If it is approved by the government, it is thrown open to all bidders. Even the designer must bid for the contract.

The Salem firm is represented by three men in Washington who do little else but contact government facilities.

It has a representative constantly in contact with the Cleveland ordinance office. In addition, plant officials themselves spend much of their time at the capital, in close touch with every government group. And given work, there is always the problem of getting materials.

This is a brief picture of one plant. There are countless others throughout the nation like it, battling the problems of new products, new tools, new machinery — and shortage of materials.

STANLEY A. MILLS DIES AT HOME HERE

Stanley A. Mills, about 78, of 309 N. Howard ave., died at 9:15 a. m. today at his home of a cerebral hemorrhage, following one year's illness.

Born at Cumberland, Md., Feb. 3, 1864, he had lived in Salem 40 years, coming here from Pittsburgh. He worked at one time as messenger for Mayor Hayes of Pittsburgh and was a Negro political leader there and in Salem. He was organizer of a Negro fire department in Pittsburgh where he was a member of the colored Masonic lodge.

Mr. Mills was employed by the American Steel & Wire Co. here for some time and served as janitor of the Presbyterian church for a number of years. He served dinners for workers on Red Cross and other special drives and campaigns. Mr. Mills, whose wife died in 1932, was a trustee of the A. M. E. Zion church.

Surviving are his daughter, Mrs. William Banks, and a son, William C. Bingham, Salem and seven grandchildren.

GERMANS SAY RED TROOP SHIPS SUNK

(By Associated Press)
An attempt by Russia's Red armies to storm back into the east Crimean city of Kerch and untie the siege of Sevastopol was indicated by the German high command today in a bulletin reporting that Nazi bombers had sunk four Soviet troop transports and damaged five others in the narrow straits of Kerch.

The straits lie between the Caucasus mainland and Kerch on the German-occupied Crimean peninsula.

The Nazi high command said the Russians suffered "heavy losses in men and material," indicating it was a sizable Russian expeditionary force. The high command did not disclose whether other transports were involved or whether the whole contingent was wiped out.

Heavy fighting has been reported raging at the approaches to Sevastopol for the past week. Only yesterday, a Soviet communiqué reported that 20,000 German troops had been killed in a six-day battle on the outer defenses of the big Black sea naval base.

LAS VEGAS, Nev.—Las Vegas is booming again today with the wartime demand for magnesium. Almost 1,000 trailer homes have been moved here. The town's population has doubled to around 10,000. Construction of a $63,000,000 magnesium plant 12 miles from here is said to be the largest in the world.

with both drives pointed at Manila. The mass raid came the day after General MacArthur proclaimed to the world that Manila was open henceforth "without the characteristics of a military objective."

The proclamation itself was dated Dec. 24, but there was no word here whether the Japanese had been told through other channels of its purpose before it was announced.

Significantly, the proclamation contained this paragraph: "In order that no excuse may be given for a possible mistake, the American high commissioner, the commonwealth government and all important military installations will be withdrawn from its environs as rapidly as possible."

HIGHWAY EMPLOYEE STRICKEN AT WORK

LISBON, Dec. 27.—John Vargo, 52, of Pleasant Heights, a state highway department worker, died suddenly of a heart attack while working with a group of other department employees on Route 39, near Salsmeville, at 9:45 a. m. today.

A World war veteran, Mr. Vargo was born in Austria Dec. 18, 1889, the son of John and Marie Vargo. He came to this country when 16 years old and volunteered with the United States forces July 1, 1917, serving with Co. F, 148th Infantry. He was a member of John Welsh post, American Legion.

Surviving are his wife, Alice Snow Vargo; three sons, Jack, Robert and Daniel; a daughter, Suzanne, and a step-son, Vernon Guy, all at home.

The funeral service will be held at 2:30 p. m. Monday at the Eells parlors, in charge of Rev. Theodore Cord. Interment will be in the Lisbon cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home Sunday evening.

Two East Liverpool Boys Missing

EAST LIVERPOOL, Dec. 27.—The United States Navy department's terse notice, "missing in action," shrouded the fate of these East Liverpool brothers who were serving on a battleship in Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, when the Japanese bombed the big United States base Dec. 7. At left is Richard Casto, 19, and right, Charles Casto, 21, grandsons of Mrs. Alice Eddy of Lincoln ave., who has not given up hope. This is the closest the tragedy of war has struck here, as more parents today received word from other East Liverpool boys in that Pacific base.

SALEM, WOMAN 45, IS FATALLY HURT

Mrs. Rita Ciotti, Struck By Car Last Tuesday, Dies Of Injuries

62, just north of Salem, Wednesday evening.

Also in serious condition at the hospital is Herbert Lee Hyden, 21, of Canton, whose car overturned on Route 45, three miles north of here, early Thursday morning.

Slight improvement is noted at City hospital in the condition of Jack G. Hickling, 20, of 433 Washington ave., who suffered a fractured skull and jaw when his automobile struck a culvert on Route 62, west of Damascus, a week ago today.

Mrs. Ciotti, a resident of Salem for the past 20 years, was the widow of Albert Ciotti, who died three years ago.

Born in Italy April 4, 1896, she was the daughter of Patrick and Philomena Buccella. She lived at Columbiana before moving to Salem. She was a member of St. Paul's Catholic church and the Risveglio society.

Surviving are three daughters, Jeanette, Purina and Olga, and a son Rudolph, at home; her sister, Mrs. Mary Miglarini, and a brother, James Buccella, of Canton.

The funeral service will be held at 9 a. m. Tuesday at the church in charge of Rev. Fr. Joseph Mahan. Burial will be in Grandview cemetery.

Friends may call at the late home anytime.
